

THE SMART CITY CONSULTING PROCESS

The Smart City team, with experience in media, government, business and non-profit organizations, understands how cities work. Through their work, they have a proven track record for asking the right questions, thinking creatively, challenging assumptions and inspiring change.

Whether crafting new stories for cities or creating new initiatives that change their futures, our business is helping cities succeed. In finding a path to success, every city is different. There are no cookie cutter solutions, no templates and no magic answers. There is only the magic that comes from this formula for the future: courage + creativity + connectivity.

Arriving at that formula results from a general five-step process that is uniquely tailored to each client's needs and desired outcomes.

courage + creativity + connectivity
